STATEMENT

Transforming space is the essence of the architect's profession. When undertaking the work of an architect, we must bear in mind the effects of our professional actions.

We should have the imperative to inhibit the non-returnable use of what has been given to us as a common good.

We live and work for others. So that this is not a profession based on constantly conquering one's own ego, but demanding the empowerment of the everyday consumer of the space we create and giving him what is valuable.

We architects - how should we be towards the World? Of course well-educated, constantly expanding professional knowledge, understanding the principles of organizing the processes happening around, sensitive and able to understand the needs of others, etc.
